

VACCINES
ARE MADE
WITH ABORTED
FETAL CELLS

- Multiple vaccines contain human fetal cells (MRC-5 and WI-38) derived from abortions.
- For many people this can pose a moral, ethical or religious issue.
- Merck's MMR II vaccine, among many other vaccines are heavily contaminated with human fetal DNA from the production process. Levels in our children can reach up to 5 ng/ml after vaccination, depending on the age, weight and blood volume of the child. That level is known to activate Toll-like receptor 9 (TLR9), which can cause autoimmune attacks.
- The full health implications of the use of fetal cell lines in vaccines is not known.
